Our Commitment to Excellence

We strive to provide our customers the safest and highest quality hand made products available on the market today. In an age when the candle industry has been inundated by candle marketers, we stand fast to our commitment to the craft and art of making quality highly scented candles. It takes a careful formulation of quality ingredients to create strong scented candles, with brilliant colors, true fragrance scents, and a consistency that makes the candles burn cleanly and safely. We continue to research and develop fragrances and wax formulations that serve as the major foundation that has made our candles the leader in the industry of highly scented candles. Our method is not the easiest or least expensive way to make candles but we believe it is the right way — the only way to get the safest, highest quality candles you have come to expect from Jazz Candles.

ALL of our products are hand-poured in Shreveport, LA. USA.

Mike Steele has always looked to take a product and make it better. He took his 25 years of talent in the drag racing industry and revolutionized it with a newly designed racing product. With a patented design and 2 World Records later, he proved to his peers that it is better to lead than follow the competition. Needing a new product to put in his pool store he turned his attention to candles. After burning several so called high quality candles, Mike noticed they all had certain flaws: wicks not centered in jars, poor burning, over wicking, and sooting where all common problems. His team immediately went to work solving these problems. Two patent pending manufacturing designs and thousands of hours of testing and you have Jazz Candles. Every candle is hand poured, with centered and trimmed lead free wicks, which are correctly sized, clean burning and triple scented for maximum fragrant release. We select only the finest fragrances and wax placing high demands on our suppliers. All of this attention to detail, without a doubt, makes burning a Jazz Candle a very unique and captivating experience. They are truly one of the strongest and cleanest burning candles on the market today. Mike and his team prove once again that it is better to lead than follow the competition.
